INTERMEDIATE CLOSING

SUPERINTENDENT FRANCIS OF LOS ANGELES SCHOOLS GIVES ADDRESS

When the ninety-six graduates of the Intermediate school marched into the auditorium of the Union High School last night they formed an impressive picture. So large a class—the largest ever presented in the history of the school—naturally attracted a large number of friends who, as well as the parents and other relatives of the graduates, filled the large hall to overflowing.

Principal R. D. White occupied the chair and accompanied on the platform by Mr. John H. Francis, superintendent of the Los Angeles schools, and also by Dr. J. E. Eckles, of the Glendale board of School Trustees. Mr. White was assisted in his management of the large graduating class by the following teachers of the Intermediate school: Miss Noble, Miss Woolridge, Miss Midcalf, Miss White, Mr. Clark, Mr. Donnell, Miss Kimball and Miss Blackburn and Miss Lucy Moore.

Under the direction of Miss Lucy Moore a selected chorus of graduates sang the "March of the Torch Bearers," a clever adaptation of Clark's well known march, "The Torchlight Procession March." Miss Eleanor Barrows played with much expression Strube's "Fauliches Beisammen-sein" on the violin. She was accompanied on the piano by her mother, Mrs. J. R. Barrows. Then came a duet, "Water Lilies," by Linders, three boys and three girls sustaining the parts. The Misses Addison, Baker and Scott and Messrs. Dewar, Verdugo and Williams showed much natural and acquired skill in rendering this attractive piece.

Principal White then presented Mr. John H. Francis to the audience, saying that Mr. Francis had done more than any other man to advance the cause of education in Southern California and that he had well earned the title, "Father of the Intermediate School."

Mr. Francis, speaking to the graduates, reminded them that we live in a wonderful age and in a wonderful country. Not one, he said, could think of the many natural attractions and wonders of California and the Pacific coast without being proud. Great events were coming on fast in this wonderful country and the graduates of the Intermediate school, part of the coming generation, would be the principal actors in those events. If they would put into practice the principles they had learned at school it would be well with them and well with the country.

Speaking of the different kinds of scholars, Mr. Francis said, "Some of you work diligently while at school and some of you spend all your time trying to evade that work. Those qualities which you are now manifesting will follow you out into the world, and your success there will depend on how much you have profited by what you are doing now. Live the best that is in you. The best part of the world is sunshine—sunshine in the sky, sunshine in the face."

"When the present devastating war in Europe is over there will be a breaking up of old relations. There will be far-reaching changes in the governments of the different countries and in the whole system of government itself. There will be an equally important change in industrial life. Men will have to do things that they never dreamed of having to do. Just as the older generation used to laugh at the idea of what they called the 'horseless carriage,' but now behold the world dominated by the automobile and further still by the aeroplane, so in the coming age in which you will have to live and take your part there will be great forces with which you must reckon and only in so far as you have learned your early lessons well will you be able to master those mighty forces."

"You are surrounded by the forces of the future everywhere in California. California carries power over a copper wire farther than any other part of the world. The mountains of the state are full of undeveloped power. I love the mountains and I have tramped over them all. I have ascended to their headwaters and stood in awe and admiration of the mighty power that flows undeveloped there. Somebody will have to gather up that limitless power. You may have to do it; if not you some one else."

"Across the Pacific vast changes are going on. China is demanding a republic. The Chinese, alive to the advantages of American civilization, is eager to adopt American learning, American standards and American clothing, engines and machinery of all kinds. That demand which will mean vast wealth for the Pacific coast you will be called on to supply. (Continued on page 4)

BIRTHDAY DINNER

MRS. RICHARDSON SURPRISED—KENSINGTON ANNOUNCEMENT—TROPICO ITEMS

Thursday was a most busy though a very happy one for Mrs. Ella W. Richardson. She was one of the hostesses at G. A. R. hall for the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club. Following the club meeting Mrs. Richardson placed the pretty decorations in the car and took them down to the Cerritos school, where they were used in the pretty decorations that brightened the assembly room Friday afternoon at the final meeting of the Tropico Parent-Teacher association for this school year.

After performing several other good deeds which rendered her all the happier, she returned home. Upon entering her beautiful home she found a number of her old-time friends who had assembled to assist in tendering her a pleasant birthday dinner surprise, for Thursday was the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Richardson.

A number of her friends, remembering that this most estimable matron had reached another milestone in her busy and happy life decided to celebrate the same, surprising her at her home. It proved to be one of the most delightful social events of the past week. The surprise was a success, the dinner everything that could be desired and the hospitality most generous.

The Kensington club, auxiliary to N. P. Banks W. R. C., will meet at the ranch home of Mrs. George W. Sanford, in Sycamore canyon, near Paradise park, Wednesday, June 9, where the day will be spent in Sewing for the Florence Crittenton home. The ladies will each take a lunch, similar to the ones taken at the all-day meetings of the corps. A motor truck will convey the ladies to the home of Mrs. Sanford and will leave the corner of San Fernando and Brand boulevard at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, stopping at Tropico and Brand, Park and Brand and Broadway and Brand and will then proceed to Mrs. Sanford's home. All those desiring to attend, whether members of the Kensington club or wishing to enjoy a delightful day at the guests of the club and desiring to assist in sewing for the Florence Crittenton home will communicate with Mrs. Joseph V. Griffin on Acacia avenue, telephone Glendale 801J.

Mrs. Margaret Jenkins, president of the club, has appointed Mrs. Jack Hammond and Mrs. Julia Sanders on the reception committee to assist the hostess.

Miss Mae Cornwell, instructor at the Acacia avenue school, reports the sum of $14 as having been made at the ice cream social given by the pupils of the school Thursday evening. This amount will be applied to the music fund, as the pupils are endeavoring to secure sufficient money with which to purchase a Victrola.

Eugene H. Imler, who has been attending Throop college in Pasadena the past year, returned to his home in West Park avenue, where he will spend his summer vacations.

Mrs. Charles A. Barker and Miss Cora Hickman were each re-elected unanimously president and vice president of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club.

Correction from Friday's account.

PEOPLE AS YOU FIND THEM

People are just as they are and it is a difficult task to make them over on short notice. People in a community will approve or disapprove of a project according to the merits in the proposition under consideration. There is no need of finding fault to the decision of the public, for their opinion is rendered just as they understand the subject in hand. The man who can keep his ear close to the will of the people is the man who understands human nature.

Many men fail in business because they cannot easily determine the wishes of the people. It stands in hand all business men to keep closely in touch with the pulse of the people.

JOINS U. S. NAVY

Gilbert B. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Wright of North Glendale, who has been in the navy for the past two years, is now at New York City on board the Utah. This young man keeps in touch with home interests by receiving the Glendale News every day.

WANT TO INCORPORATE

Petitions are being circulated in North Glendale by a committee who are working strenuously for the incorporation of that community as a city—so the report comes.

GOOD TEMPLARS MEET

TO PLAN RECEPTION IN HONOR OF CHARLES H. RANDALL, CONGRESSMAN

Glendale lodge, No. 46, I. O. G. T., met last night at their headquarters in the I. O. O. F. hall.

On account of the commencement exercises of the Intermediate school many of the younger members were absent.

This lodge has now a membership large enough to make it a wise plan to meet once a week instead of every other as is being done at present. The matter being brought before the lodge, it was discussed and the matter was laid over.

The following resolutions were adopted: Resolved, That Glendale lodge No. 46, I. O. G. T., co-operate with the Glendale Prohibition club in arranging a reception by the citizens of this city to Congressman Chas. H. Randall.

Whereas, The California campaign by Barbara Askeland, and remarks adopted: Resolved, That Glendale lodge No. 46, I. O. G. T., co-operate with the Glendale Prohibition club in arranging a reception by the citizens of this city to Congressman Chas. H. Randall.

Whereas, The International Order of Good Templars for more than half a century has steadfastly advocated the principles of total abstinence for the individual and prohibition for the state and nation, and

Whereas, We believe it to be for the best interests of California's moral, spiritual, intellectual, social and economic progress the traffic in intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes be absolutely prohibited, and

Whereas, We consider it to be the solemn duty of all moral and Christian people to support by every means in their power such legislation, therefore be it

Resolved, That Glendale lodge No. 46, I. O. G. T., regularly assembled hereby approves amendment article 24, "A" providing for a complete prohibition of the alcoholic liquor traffic for beverage purposes by January, 1920, and urge all Good Templars to unite with us in an increasing warfare upon this giant evil at the polls, and be it further

Resolved, That the electoral superintendent and other executive officers of this lodge be and are hereby instructed to take the necessary action to carry into effect the declarations herein expressed.

Grand Chief Templar of California P. W. Blaine, Charles R. Burger, state chairman of the Prohibition party; J. P. M. Jensen, secretary of the Los Angeles Prohibition county central committee, and Miles Burger, son of Charles Burger and a student of the University of California agricultural department at Davies, were present. These gentlemen having just returned from the convention held at Fresno, June 3, were able to give glimpses which were instructive.

A social committee was appointed to plan for a social in the near future. A fine program, consisting of a song by Robt. Taylor, a piano solo by Clementine Wilkes, the lodge paper, the Bugle Call, written and read by Barbara Askeland, an demark by the visitors.

Lodge adjourned to meet again June 18, when it is planned to instruct a large class of candidates. It will also be the sisters' evening, the sisters to have charge.

SINGERS ENTERTAINED

Members of the choir of the First Congregational church were fortunate last evening in being entertained at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. MacRae, 1436 Salem St. The decorations of pink and white carnations and pink and white sweet peas formed a dainty and pretty color scheme and the fragrance and beauty of the flowers added much to the pleasure of the assembled company. Abundant entertainment had been provided for the guests and there were no dull moments during the evening. Several games were played, first prize going to Mr. Chappell, while Mr. Van Dyke was forced to be content with the consolation.

prize going to Mr. Chappell, while Mr. Van Dyke was forced to be content with the consolation. Naturally such a company of song birds could not congregate without exercising their talents along that line and there was an informal and impromptu program of music. Nice refreshments were very daintily served and appreciated by the guests. During the evening the hostess was assisted by Misses Margaret Lichtblau and Flora Bates.

Those who were present at this happy affair were Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Willisford, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Dyke, Mr. and Mrs. Blake Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Chappell, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Yarrick and the host and hostess.

RUSH TO EXPOSITION

TOTAL ATTENDANCE AT SAN DIEGO FAIR HAS REACHED 798,440

SAN DIEGO, June 5.—Attendance at the San Diego exposition for May jumped skyward and official figures just announced show that the month's total is 179,440, the largest month to date, even including the opening month of January. In January thirty-two days included, the attendance of December 31 being considered in January's total of 180,270. Eliminating the attendance of December 31 May exceeded January and exposition directors are wearing expansive smiles.

"The best is yet to come," they say. This opinion is well substantiated by the reports given out by railroads which are constantly adding extra trains to their trans-continental service. The railroads declare that the heaviest travel will start early in this month and will continue throughout the summer.

The total attendance of 179,440 during May gives a daily average of 5800, the greatest daily average in a month's time since the exposition threw open its gates. The biggest day in May was the 31st, when 17,663 passed through the turnstiles. In this figure is not included 2500 who entered the grounds in the Memorial day parade. The total attendance at the exposition since its opening now reaches the high figure of 798,440.

May also contributed a handsome profit on operation and while official figures are not yet available, the total will be close to that for March, which was $24,418. The closing days of May brought great crowds to the exposition, the last three days sending 35,120 through the gates. In the same three days the expenditures of visitors were heavy, these totaling $19,921 on the Isthmus and in the buildings.

The closing days of May and the opening ones of this month saw large crowds at the San Diego exposition with a heavy influx of special trains carrying delegates to and from conventions held in Los Angeles and San Francisco. In between came the celebrities, not singly but in bunches, special entertainment for them following in dizzy succession.

Within the last week four men of national prominence have been exposition visitors, stopping here a day or so and then moving on to the San Francisco exposition or returning to their homes. Most prominent of these is Congressman Joseph G. Cannon (Uncle Joe) of Illinois, for many years "Czar of Congress." Congressman Cannon, returning from the congressional trip to Hawaii, visited the exposition Monday. Despite his seventy-seven years "Uncle Joe" insisted on climbing to the top of the tower in the California building. At this high point he looked out on the exposition and as he puffed hard on his ever-present cigar he summed up the exposition in this brief eulogy: "It is a gem and a lasting monument to the progress and determination of you Californians."

Little Rhode Island was represented among the quartet of distinguished visitors, for Governor R. L. Beeckman of that state was an interested visitor Sunday. The Rhode Island governor appeared particularly interested in the Southern California counties building and in the Painted Desert, where the life of the Southwest Indians is portrayed. Adding his praise of the exposition to the thousands of laudatory remarks of distinguished persons who have visited it before him, Governor Beeckman said: "It is one of the most magnificent expositions of history and I am greatly impressed with the completeness of exhibits and the beauty of the grounds."

OWENSMOUTH BIDS

Charles W. Kent & Son, 429 S. Brand boulevard, were the lowest bidders for the erection of a new high school building at Owensmouth, as told in the Glendale Evening News a short time ago. The figures on the various bids are now at hand as follows:

Charles W. Kent & Son, $62,200; Mann-Knox Construction company, $68,927; J. W. Morrison, $62,919; J. W. Davidson, $78,777; C. W. McNeil, $67,978.

RECONSIDER RATES

The request for reconsideration of the decision concerning the rates to be charged by the Glendale-Montrose railway has been filed by the railway corporation with the state railroad commission. The commission's decision given last month permitted an increase of the one-way fares, but denied the 46-ride and 52-ride individual commutation rates.

IS IT A BLIND PIG?

Miguel Hernandez, a Mexican, was observed by Officer Arrington Friday night making his way along Glendale avenue with suspicious looking parcels in his hands. The officer immediately went in pursuit and succeeded in arresting Hernandez, who had his hands full of "the liquor that he loved." Unable to make resistance although he was armed with a revolver and fortified with a private flask of "strong waters," Hernandez was perforce, however reluctantly, compelled to hand over the spoil.

When opened in the police station the parcels were found to consist of three one-gallon jugs, containing whiskey; but as no one around had sufficient acquaintance with the stuff it was impossible to say whether it was good, bad or indifferent. Such as it was, it was promptly confiscated and Hernandez locked up for the night.

This morning the prisoner was arraigned before Judge Whomes and sentenced for carrying concealed weapons and having in his possession a suspicious quantity of liquor.

It is said that Hernandez has been under police suspicion for some time as the keeper of a blind pig. Other Mexicans have been known to state that they could purchase and had purchased liquor at Hernandez' establishment. The police, however, have not been able to get such evidence from them on the witness stand.

Judge Whomes sentenced Hernandez to pay a fine of $25 or go 25 days to jail.

ROBBINETTE RECEPTION

For the good things one usually has to wait. This proved to be the case in this afternoon's reception given by the Robbinette club in honor of Mrs. Evelyn Fletcher Copp and the Tuesday Afternoon club. This function, while coming at the end of a strenuous season, was most assuredly one of Glendale's most successful from both point of beauty and enjoyment.

Masonic hall was transformed into a beautiful drawing room by the addition of many rugs and easy chairs and baskets of flowers and ferns. A short program, consisting of a duet by two members of the Robbinette club, Mrs. L. G. Sherman and Miss Clara Pearson, which was beautifully rendered, and a group of Mrs. H. H. A. Beache's songs by Miss Rachel Smith, who displayed a beautiful voice and splendid technique. These numbers were accompanied by Madame Robbins, who is the teacher of these young ladies.

Mrs. Copp was then introduced by the president, Mrs. Sherman, and those present certainly enjoyed a rare treat in hearing Mrs. Copp. She has a remarkable personality and reaches her auditors in a "homey" human sort of way that makes a strong appeal of its own. She interests mothers especially in the Fletcher method as a means of developing children along natural lines, illustrating her talk with some children's original musical compositions with Mother Goose rhymes as texts or even original texts as well as musical settings. Mrs. Copp enjoys meeting people and invites questions as to her method. Iced tea and sweet cakes were served by the dainty members of the Robbinette club and those members of the Tuesday Afternoon club not present missed an altogether delightful affair.

TALENTED ARTIST

ANTONY ANDERSON, THE WELL KNOWN CRITIC, COMPLIMENTS GLENDALE MAN

Antony Anderson, the well known art critic of the Los Angeles Times, has the following to say of Mr. Walter Cheever, a talented young Glendale artist and son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fuller of North Glendale:

Walter L. Cheever, who has a commodious studio on a beautiful lemon ranch in the outskirts of Glendale, and who works industriously among the lemons when he is not painting, is equally vigorous in both his occupations. An excellent draughtsman and painter, trained under Tarbell and Benson in the Boston academy, his canvases are workmanlike and well considered.

Cheever has just finished some strong and attractive portraits of men and women, and has also made a number of good studies in what may be termed polite genre. One of the most successful, beautiful in placement and composition, is "Blue and Gold," a young woman in dull blue seated at a tea table in front of a window whose curtain filters the amber of California sunlight. The picture has much charm of color and is very sincere.

Sincerity, indeed, is one of this young artist's most attractive characteristics. He is apt to be so sincere that he becomes at times over-conscientious. He is rapidly conquering this fault, however, and it has almost entirely disappeared in the studies of sea coast he recently painted at La Jolla. They are full of the outdoor feeling, and have been done in a big way. So far as I know Cheever has never held an exhibition in Los Angeles, but I hope he may be prevailed upon to do so in the near future. Such an exhibition would give pleasure to art lovers.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT CONVENTION

Members and friends of the Christian church (Disciples of Christ) will be glad to read the following telegram fresh from the office of the committee in Los Angeles: "Assurances from the east indicate a very large attendance at our International convention July 18-25. The Bible institute will be crowded to the doors and overflow meetings held in nearby churches. Champ Clark, speaker of the house of representatives; Senator George T. Oliver of Pennsylvania, and ex-Governor Benton McMillan of Tennessee, as well as other distinguished members of this church are expected to attend if their official duties will permit. The great chorus choir is making rapid progress under the direction of Prof. Crittenden. The decorating committee is planning to spend several hundred dollars in beautifying the convention auditorium. W. F. Holt of Imperial fame is looking after the financial side. A special postoffice is to be built for the benefit of the guests. The great communion service on Sunday afternoon, July 25, is to be the largest and most impressive ever held on the Pacific coast. Every disciple of Christ and every friend of the Christian church will be made welcome, not only at the International convention July 18-25th, but will also be expected to attend the state convention of the Christian Missionary society of Southern California in the same building July 16-25th."

A TALENTED SINGER

Glendale people will have the opportunity tomorrow morning at the 11:00 o'clock service at the Congregational church, Third and Central, of hearing Mrs. Louise Torrey Patton of Denver sing. Mrs. Patton is a musician of unusual ability and will be heard with much pleasure.

Mrs. Patton is spending a short time in Glendale visiting friends. Her husband is professor of geology in the School of Mines at Golden, Colorado. Golden is situated about fifteen miles from Denver.

TO HONOR MISS HICKMAN

Glen Eyrie chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, is planning a banquet in honor of Miss Cora Hickman, district deputy grand matron of the grand chapter.

The banquet will be given Thursday evening at six o'clock in Masonic Temple. At the close of the banquet Miss Hickman will visit Glen Eyrie chapter officially.

Mrs. Dan Campbell, Mrs. Margaret Williamson and Mr. Thomas D. Ogg are arranging the banquet.

At any rate, there will be no formidable invasion of Europe this year by American tourists.

NEEDS OF THE NAVY

Throughout the United States there is a general belief that the navy has been suffering at the hands of Secretary Daniels. It may be that he—good, easy soul—has inherited some of the sins and omissions of his predecessors; but nothing would justify Daniels or any other man in the eyes of the people of this land should any of the many evils prognosticated come to pass by reason of their neglect.

Daniels is not popular with the officers of the navy and he appears to be equally unpopular with the men. When his picture was shown on a moving picture screen at Vera Cruz, the other day, the whole body of navy men present hissed it loudly.

To that section of the people which thinks that the navy is a primary school and approves the educational experiments that have been going on there at the instance of Mr. Daniels, there is nothing amiss with the country's first line of defense. To practical navy men everything is wrong with it, with the sole exception of the undoubted bravery and skill of the sailors, officers and marines.

Not long ago Rear-Admiral Fiske told the House Naval Committee of the woeful lack of adequate naval equipment. Shortly after that he received a plain intimation that his retirement from the office of Aide for Operations would not occasion the department any great grief. He retired accordingly. Others who were bold enough to follow his example and find fault with the present management of the navy were also got rid of.

Rear-Admiral Fiske, however, is a fighter and evidently had no intention of deserting the cause of the navy even if he had to retire from a lucrative office at the bidding of a layman who rose to the head of the country's "navy" by "polishing up the handle of the big front door." Accordingly, the brave admiral tackled the tabooed subject again at the Naval Academy Alumni dinner in the august presence of Daniels, who must have squirmed at the significant statements of the brave officer, which were in marked contrast to his own shallow optimism. Admiral Fiske said that it was necessary to make the laymen of the land understand the needs of the navy, and how inadequate present conditions would be in face of war.

As the admiral said, an attacking force would be as great as the attacking power could spare. It would include battle cruisers, dreadnaughts, predreadnaughts, scouts, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, mine depot ships, mine layers, mine sweepers, airships and aeroplanes, all fully manned and all strategically directed by a general staff.

To meet such a force the United States has a much smaller number of dreadnaughts, predreadnaughts and destroyers than the enemy would bring, no battle cruisers, no effective scouts, one airship, three aeroplanes, two mine depot ships, one mine layer, twelve mine sweepers and forty-five submarines of various stages of obsolescence, scattered over the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and in the Philippines and Hawaii.

In short, this country has no adequate sea defense and the personnel for manning even the fleet now in existence is wholly inadequate. This is a lamentable state of affairs. It is more than lamentable; it reflects disgrace on men like the present secretary of the navy, who, without training or experience necessary for such an office, has been thrust into this important position and has not even sense enough to keep from stultifying himself there.

There will be a bitter reckoning with the men who have been guilty of this betrayal of the country's needs. There has never been a time when men of this stamp could hide themselves from the bitter wrath of an aroused and indignant people. Meanwhile, men like Admiral Fiske deserve well at the hands of the country for their patriotic fearlessness. It should be made impossible for a pettifogging layman like Daniels to take contemptible revenge on real navy men for speaking the truth.

SOME ADVANTAGES OF WAR

When one looks abroad over the blood-soaked fields of Europe, on its ancient landmarks laid in the dust, on its incomparable architecture ruined beyond remedy, on its particular arts and crafts made to cease for perhaps all time, one feels like condemning war without measure of words. On the other hand, there is a phase of war that is often overlooked. War stimulates manhood and destroys, for a time at least, purely utilitarian ideas.

One of England's greatest preachers, Robertson of Brighton, once said it were better that every street in London should run with blood than that the country should settle down to smug commercialism and worship cotton rather than manhood. Wordsworth, the poet, was not one likely to be accused of bloodthirstiness, yet he recognized the fact that war serves certain large ends and says, speaking of the Almighty, "yea, carnage is his daughter."

In like manner Gen. George W. Goethals, the builder of the Panama Canal, speaking at Johns-Hopkins University last week, said: "Notwithstanding its horrors, war assists in progress. Even though some industries are for the time being at a standstill, new ones are developed; inventive genius is aroused or stimulated for the benefit of the attack or defense, resulting in new applications utilized subsequently in peaceful pursuits, so that, while the engineers' field of employment already is extensive, there is every prospect for its further expansions."

That is true, and furthermore, while many ancient gems of architectural beauty have been irremediably ruined, there has been an equal destruction of ancient buildings that were eyesores and death-traps, reeking with disease germs and foulness of every kind. It is truly an ill wind that blows nobody good.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP IN UNITED KINGDOM

In a recent editorial in the Glendale Evening News it was pointed out that much of the success of municipal ownership, where it has been a success, depended on the character of the men employed to carry out the system. That is a phase of the question that is deserving of the most minute attention on the part of those who wish to see municipal ownership in American communities.

At present many American communities are considering steps toward municipal ownership and some of them are likely to adopt it, without due consideration. To such as these it may be well to point out that the National Civic League Commission of London, which has carried on an inquiry into the operation of municipal ownership covering practically the whole of the United Kingdom, is not so sanguine over the matter.

That report shows that in some places municipal ownership does not measure up to expectations; in some places it shows fair results, while in others its whole record has been first-class.

It is pleasing to find one's pronouncements at one with those of so august a body as the National Civic League, which sums up the whole matter thus: "After all, municipalization to be a success almost entirely depends upon the character of the men who are elected to administer the affairs of municipalities."

AMAZONS OF THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

Nothing has been more astonishing among the many astonishing developments of the war in Europe than the rise of woman as a factor in determining world's events. Just before the war the suffragettes of England were showing enormous activity in committing sundry acts of arson—to wit, the burning of ancient churches, historic buildings and even private houses. All of a sudden the war broke out and as if that were all they desired, the suffragettes dropped their grievances and became nurses, scouts, aeronauts, motorists, and now plan to fill every position that man has filled.

There can be no doubt about their efficiency; no doubt about their patriotism; and now the heroine of many encounters, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, is advocating obligatory war service for both men and women. That is a step in advance of anything suggested as yet; but it is a step in the right direction. Mrs. Pankhurst is logical and willing to shoulder all the necessities of her creed. She is right in believing that if women are to share with men the work of the world, they must also share its burdens. Woman has borne many burdens in the past and there can be no doubt about her ability and her willingness to bear the novel burdens of the new age.

WAR NEWS

I have several good German friends who believe all the unfavorable news they read from Germany about the allies, and disbelieve all the unfavorable news they read from England and France about Germany. Also, I have several good British friends who do the same thing, only reversed.

Intelligent neutrals have ceased reading the "official communiques" from the warring countries because they tell only of victories for their own arms, or at most, of "slight reverses" and "strategic retirements." Strange, is it not, that in these days of universal education, wireless telegraphy and daily newspapers there should be so much lying and credulity?—Exchange.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Ellen Galey has given up her home at 323 Orange street and removed to 1432 Salem street.

Mrs. May Brown and her little son Louis have moved from their former residence at Third and Orange streets to Rock Glen avenue.

Geo. Mitchell and family of Kenneth road left Saturday of this week for Uva, Wyoming, where they will reside.

Mr. Howard H. Martin, who lived at 329 Orange street, has moved to Los Angeles with his family. They have sold their property on Orange street.

Mrs. L. C. Abell, 315 Maryland St., has as a houseguest her mother, Mrs. Lafferty. Mrs. Lafferty was at one time a very prominent suffragist and W. C. T. U. worker.

C. W. Clark, 201 S. Central, returned Friday from Chicago. He reports that Illinois and the middle west have had heavy floods and considerable territory is under water.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Desky, a retired merchant of Salt Lake City, are expected to arrive in Glendale Sunday morning to visit at the home of Salo Desky, 139 S. Kenwood, for several days before visiting the exposition at San Diego.

Mr. R. H. Sands, 1445 Burchett Street, who has been on the sick list for some time, is now getting better. Mr. Sands' illness was of a very serious nature, but his friends now entertain the hope that he will entirely recover.

Dr. H. V. Everly, 1648 Oak street, has opened up a first-class optical manufacturing shop in the Bumiller building, Broadway, Los Angeles, with Dr. C. S. Steelman as associate partner. Dr. Everly's many friends wish himself and his partner all success in their undertaking.

Mrs. Louise Torrey Patton of Denver, Colo., and her little daughter, Dorothy, are guests at the home of Mr. J. T. Torrey, 1318 W. Second street. Mr. Patton, who is a professor of geology in the Colorado State School of Mines, will join Mrs. Patton in Glendale in July.

Mr. Joseph L. Shugart, wife and little son of South Omaha, Neb., are visiting Mr. Shugart's parents at 224 Belmont street. After visiting the exposition at San Francisco and other points of interest they are much pleased with their first visit to California. Mr. Shugart is connected with the Omaha Live Stock company in South Omaha.

A congenial party assembled at the residence of Mrs. H. A. Eddy, 1409 Ivy street, Wednesday. Table decorations were pansies and Easter lilies and the place cards were hand-painted. The guests were Mrs. Captain Neil, Mrs. W. Althouse, Mrs. J. F. Neil, Mrs. Gus Pulliam, Mrs. Harry Neil, Miss Grace Hammond of Los Angeles, Mrs. C. B. Wilde.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

SAN DIEGO, June 5.—With one day given over entirely to the more prominent advocates of peace and the next entirely to the fighting organizations of Uncle Sam, the San Diego exposition's Independence day program promises to furnish ample variety.

The Fourth of July falls on Sunday. On this day the religious and educational forces of Southern California will be enlisted in a monster demonstration of the desire for peace at home and abroad. By daybreak of the legal holiday, Monday, the whole scene will be changed. The entire force of U. S. Marines stationed on the exposition grounds, the men from the First Cavalry camp, the artillerymen from Fort Rosecrans, the whole aerial fleet from the army zero camp, the sailors from the battleships in the harbor and the Annapolis 1915 cadets who will then be in San Diego on their Pacific coast tour, will surge onto the grounds for a great land parade and for the proposed sham battle of the afternoon, "The Defense of San Diego."

With Col. J. H. Pendleton of the marines and Admiral T. B. Howard of the Pacific fleet assisting in the plans for the battle, the entire program will be presented within a few days to the war and navy departments for approval. As the forces were used a few weeks ago for a smaller sham battle in the canyons and the marine camp, it is not expected there will be any opposition, particularly as this will give the new midshipmen, just graduated from the academy, their first taste of activities of just this sort. It is likely they will be allowed only to look on, leaving participation in the fight to the veterans of the Ohio, Missouri and Wisconsin, the ships which are coming on the tour.

The Independence Day program covers Saturday, Sunday and Monday, July 3-5, the first day being signalized by the arrival of several large delegations attending Pacific coast conventions. Attendance on each occasion is expected to exceed by a big margin the present record attendance of Memorial Day, which brought May to an end and established another high record for monthly attendance at the San Diego exposition. The advance guard of summer tourists is now on the march.

NORTH GLENDAL E

Mrs. Lewis Cadwallader of 1624 Ruth street was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Largey of Alhambra, during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Kenneth road entertained as their guests at dinner Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. John H. Francis of Los Angeles.

Miss Ruth J. Wright of 1649 Ruth street and Miss Loretta Hobson of Pasadena are spending the day in Hollywood where they are attending the Brown and Curry meetings.

Mrs. C. H. Cunningham of 1013 Fairview avenue is entertaining as her house guest for a week Miss Emma Rounds of Chicago, Ill., who has been traveling throughout the west with the Euturpian Ladies' quartet of which she is a member. Many pleasant features of entertainment have been enjoyed during the week by the gracious host and her charming guest, one day having been spent visiting Universal City with its many and interesting sights, which were greatly appreciated.

Mr. W. H. Horton of Dryden St. returned from a trip to the Antelope valley very recently where he has extensive ranch property which he is having highly improved.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

By Rev. R. W. Mottern. Sunday, June 6, topic, "Body Under, Soul on Top." 1 Cor. 9:24-27. (Consecration Meeting.)

Bible Help

Restrain the appetites, Luke 12:22-31.

Self control, Rom. 6:7-14.

Self denial, Matt. 16:21-28.

Spiritual inspiration, 1 Cor. 14:1, 12.

The contrast, Rom. 8:5-14.

The spiritual mind, Phil. 2:1-5.

Seed Notes

Talking to a Christian worker, an Indian said, "I am two Indians." Meaning by that he recognized within him were two forces at work, the lower and the higher, each striving for control and domination. Likewise every thinking man observes that his heart becomes the battleground between the forces of the lower nature and the higher. Each is contending for the mastery of the seat of all thought and activity. A choice must be made. The result determines what we are and what we will do. This is reliable.

What Is Natural

It is easy to choose to let Nature have her course, which from observation and experience shown leads to wrong and sin. Its tendency is downward. Every yielding to our lower nature digs a groove or channel that wears deeper, making it easier each time the yielding is repeated, and more difficult to resist the wrong tendencies of that lower nature. Our appetites and passions, impulses and desires are very strong in us, very difficult to control, because of their natural bent. They will have their own way if possible. And so how easy for our nature to set itself in the direction of the carnal and temporal.

Restraining Power of Law

Law has been brought into the control of society because of its restraining and corrective forces. It has worked well, but not effective enough. We have found that men will break over all restraint. No law against murder will prevent it, nor yet stealing, nor rape. God's divine law in His commands will not prevent wrong doing. They are his "schoolmaster" to direct toward a better way of doing.

What Will Control

Self mastery is desired by every honest mind. The results of sin are so grievous and evident. It wants to become heroic and triumphant. Happiness and freedom are along that line. Joy and blessing there, too.

True man and womanhood are encouraged. Everything good and great that have raised the very race above the beast. This prize of self-control is within reach of all. Each must decide which side of our nature is to rule. Earnestness and desire for the good will lead you to pay the price, and that is self denial. The task is difficult, but dare not be neglected. Whatever hinders the best within you must be put away. "What ought I do" rather than "what dare I do" will control. Higher than law is the impelling power of love and grace, faith and obedience, leading us to the best within striving for victory. It is only by living a strong and healthy, virtuous and exemplary Christian life that we can crown our highest and best impulses and ambitions.

The true spirit of conversation consists more in bringing out the cleverness in others than in showing a great deal of it yourself. He who goes away pleased with himself and his own wit is also greatly pleased with you.—Bruyere.

A German military critic says: "Neutrals must accept the war as it is, and adjust themselves to it." That is absurd. Brawlers might say the same on a public street.

Animal bones, found in Wyoming, are said by scientists to be 200,500,000 years old. Why couldn't they make it an even 201,000,000?

CITY BEAUTIFICATION TO RESULT

"The great and enduring lesson of beauty," that is the most important achievement of the Panama-Pacific International exposition, and it will result in vast improvement of the cities and towns of California. So declares Professor Eugene Neuhaus of the University of California, chairman of the Western advisory committee for fine arts and member of the international jury for art, in the book which he has just published on "The Art of the Exposition." The interpretation of the architecture, sculpture, mural painting, landscape gardening, color and illuminations of the exposition which Professor Neuhaus has set down in this book he is to develop in greater detail in eighteen illustrated evening lectures in the summer session of the University of California from June 21 to July 31.

Professor Neuhaus pokes a little fun at the misconception which prevails in some parts of the United States that the west "has only very recently emerged from a state of semi-civilization, inimical to the finer things of life." He declares the buildings of the exposition have "all the big essential qualities that art possesses only in its noblest expression." He says the fundamental laws of balance, harmony, and unity, have been uniformly and persistently applied through the seriously designed main body of the exposition. "The Fine Arts palace, of which Bernard Maybeck was the architect, professor Neuhaus characterizes as a 'supreme beauty,' and as 'based on the realization of a dream of true artistic conception.'"

Sculpture Mr. Neuhaus regards as the most important of all the rest for an exposition, because the most human. He declares that seldom before have sculptor and architect so successfully worked together as at this exposition. He predicts a great future for sculpture in America, "where temperament demands it." The extraordinarily successful use of color and the wonderful achievements in lighting he regards as two of the most fruitful contributions of the exposition.

In his discussion of the mural paintings, he particularly praises the wonderful Brangwyn murals in the Court of Abundance, declaring that it evidently "gave the artist the utmost pleasure to paint them." He characterizes them as "great paintings in a technical sense."

That the exposition will be far reaching in its demonstration of the "actual commercial value of artistic assets" is predicted by Professor Neuhaus. He declares the exposition really a city planning exposition of the first order, and urges application of the great principles displayed there in the development of every city and town in California. He predicts that the exposition "will start an avalanche of improvements along artistic lines, which will be given increasing momentum by the development of long periods of prosperity."

THE FLOWER SHOW

The ladies of the Tuesday Afternoon club wish to extend their sincere thanks and appreciation to all who in any way assisted them in the recent festival.

The committee on flower show are especially indebted to Mr. Jno. R. Pirtle, who donated the use of garage in Borthick block; also to Mr. Hinchcliff, who donated machine shop of garage, and to Borthick brothers, who donated office room in their new building. Thanks are also due Congregational and Christian churches for use of tables, chairs, etc.; Litchfield Lumber Co., lumber; Sparr Fruit Co., boxes; La Ramada, for awnings; Connor's Dairy, bottles and hauling of date palms, etc.; Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Jackson, use of their piano; Jackson Furniture Co., tables, chairs, couch, etc.; Mrs. Mellus and Schilling's for use of canvas—and last, but not least, to every single person who entered exhibits, private or professional.

Also our thanks are due to many non-club members who assisted in the flower show and musical programs, and to everyone who donated prizes.

Following is the expense incurred in putting up exhibits which were of great civic value to our city, and of which great good may redound to us, though our citizens at large did not seem to realize the great effort and expense required to show outside people what Glendale soil can produce:

Cambric for covering tables.....	$12.19
Muslin for curtain in garage.....	4.20
Labor by workmen.....	14.25
Nightwatch, private.....	5.00
Cartage piano, tables, etc.....	6.50
Handbills, classifications, etc.....	17.75
Wire for hanging baskets.....	.40
Paint for cans used.....	.45
Pins.....	.10
	$60.74

Admission fees were received at doors amounting to $58.55, donations of $2.20 making a net profit of the immense sum of one cent.

A full account of all other departments and amounts cleared by them will be published some time next week.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. MATTISON B. JONES,

General Chairman of Fiesta.

FLIES AND FOOLISHNESS

With the coming of summer we shall again hear on all sides the parrot-like cry "Swat the Fly," based on the prevailing medical error of mistaking the effect for the cause, and attributing all disease to "bugs." Surgeon General Blue estimates the cost of flies to the United States at $157,800,000 a year. I figure it at only $156,797,853.50, but then, experts will differ. Did you ever think what would happen in the unfortunate event that these fly swatters should be able to exterminate every fly, without removing the filth on which they breed and feed? The world would be visited by the worst epidemic ever known.

Like the gulls of the sea shore, the buzzards of South America, the dogs of Constantinople, and the germs that infect the human body, flies are beneficent scavengers. Remove the filth and the flies will disappear. Unless you do this, you should be thankful to the flies and should protect them.—Brain and Brawn.

MITE BOX OPENING

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church will hold its annual mite box opening at the home of Mrs. C. W. Ingledue, 725 West Third street, on Monday evening, May 7. Every member is requested to be present and bring her husband or friend. There will be a good program and light refreshments.

INTERMEDIATE GRADUATION

The coming age is replete with wonderful opportunity for you young folks if you have profited by what has been taught you.

"Here in California we see the mighty present in touch with the mighty past. In the northern part of the state stand the gigantic sequoias, positively the oldest living things in the world; at La Brea lie the slime pits in which the mastodons of a dim, historic past laid their bones, and in touch with both the living, active, marvelous present with its wonders. The old and the new. You are of the new. Will you play your part as well as the old has done?"

"Whatever part you may be called on to play, play it with your whole soul. Society, farming, music, literature, art, mechanics—whatever you choose do it with your might. Give the best expression of yourselves. Making money is not the highest nor the happiest employment of human beings. A man may be a millionaire and yet be conscious that he is a failure; that he has missed much that makes life worth living. The most apparently successful workman, on the other hand, may have chosen the better part that cannot be taken away from him.

"Wherever you look you see men doing, accomplishing. The men who make the great Atlantic liner go are the men in the stoke hole; the men in the trenches are also in the end the men who must be relied on to finish the war. In this way whatever you may do is of importance. Give your very best to it. Work for yourself; not merely for the money that is in it. Let your work be the best you can do. Don't try to put anything over by a short cut. People are doing that every day and getting away with it. Don't you do it.

"If you want to know how to succeed remember that you must first decide what you are going to do. Decide to be or to do something. Boys and girls who don't know what they are going to do are a source of danger to themselves and to others. Get hold of something definite and hold to it.

"Be honest. Honesty is the primal virtue and you can't succeed without it. Don't permit people to impose on you so as to make you violate your own God-given faculties. Believe in yourselves and follow your own original bent. If you permit yourself merely to follow others you are doing yourself an injustice. The work of the world needs courage. There are various kinds of courage. The lowest is physical courage. That form of courage is common in school-boys; but moral courage is more rare and when found it gains the respect and admiration of the world. Stand for what you think is right and you will be respected.

"Another great thing is simplicity. Be simple. Simple in manners and in dress. I am pleased to see the great step you have taken by inaugurating the simple mode of graduating dress. Simple as it is, it is becoming. Still further cultivate staying qualities. You know a great many things. You know much more than your parents ever got the chance to learn.

With all that learning I doubt, however, if you have the staying powers they had. How many schoolboys nowadays get up at 4 o'clock as their parents did? How many of them work all day till sunset. Inspiration is a great thing, but it is nothing without perspiration. It is the steady application to the one thing you are doing that counts in the long run. Be generous. Think no evil.

You will hear many young people complaining of the lack of opportunity. Opportunity is everywhere. There is as much opportunity here now as there ever was. There are opportunities in Alaska or South America, and if properly followed up they would undoubtedly yield a profitable harvest. However, here in California there are as many opportunities as you can want to have. Find them. Find one of them and pursue it diligently. Above all things:

"To thine own self be true,
And it must follow as night the day,
Thou can'st not then be false to any man."

Principal White then introduced Dr. Eckles.

Dr. Eckles expressed his great pleasure in being present. He urged the graduates to go forward to the High School and still farther to college and university. He then presented the graduates with their diplomas. This ceremony, which proceeded in a most orderly and admirable manner, was the event of the evening for which the parents and friends had waited patiently. The various graduates were greeted with loud applause as they passed across the stage. Just before the presentation a selected choir of graduates sang a trio by Wilson-Mildenberg entitled "Carmena."

The ceremony came to a close by the singing by the whole body of graduates of a clever class song composed by Margaret Pardon, a member of the class. This song was written in the measure of the well-known "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," and was sung to that music. It was entitled "Parting from the Third street school."
